基本英文 700 選

<基本規則>

- 各英文に SVOCM をふり，和訳を行うこと．
- 英単語と品詞は調べて良いものとするが，英文全体の翻訳は行わないこと．
- 太字の部分は重要な単語及び熟語，フレーズなので調べて空いているスペースに「どのようなものなのか」を必要に応じて補足記入しておくことを推奨する．
- わからない問題があっても自身の回答を記入すること．空欄は許されない．
- 文型は基本的に SVOCM を使用すること．それ以外は適宜設定をして良いものとする(ただし採点者が分かるような補足をつけること)．例えば関係代名詞の節を形容詞(名詞の説明の役割)として使用したい場合は[形]と記入するなど．
- 提出期限を何らかの理由で延ばしてほしい場合は事前申告を遵守すること．
- 間違っていた場合は次回までに訂正して持ってくること．
- 助動詞は動詞と併せて「動詞」としてよいものとする．それ以外に聞きたいことがあれは問題作成者まで問うこと．
- 正解した問題は和訳から英文が作れるように努めること．小テストを実施する場合がある．ただし，前文の記入等は暗記要素が高く且つ非効率なため整序問題を想定する．また，音読を実施する場合もある．
- また本内容において，英文中の()は言い換えが可能なことを表し，[]は省略が可能なことを表す．
- 週ごとの提出を基本とするが，進められなかった週も提出はすること．場合によって写真提出や PDF 提出，JPEG 提出を希望する場合は事前申告すること．
- 米国英語に訂正しているが所々，英国英語のままになっていることがあるので，分からなければ聞きに来ること(米国英語で学ぶ方が好ましい)．
- 英文中の()は書き換えが可能なことを示し，[]は省略が可能なことを表している．

氏名＿＿＿＿＿＿＿＿＿＿＿＿＿＿＿＿

目次

番号	単元	問題番号
1	S+V+Norn (or Adjective)	1 - 13
2	S+V+Verbal, etc.	14 - 53
3	S+be+p.p.+Verbal, etc.	54 - 72
4	S+be+Adjective+Verbal, etc.	73 - 89
5	S+V+O +Verbal, etc.	90 - 129
6	Noun Clause	130 - 154
7	It-(There-) Construction	155 - 195
8	Inversion, Apposition & Parenthesis	196 - 238
9	Noun Construction	239 - 256
10	Tense	257 - 284
11	Voice	285 - 294
12	Mood	295 - 326
13	Auxiliary	327 - 366
14	Infinitive	367 - 398
15	Participle & Gerund	399 - 436
16	Relative	437 - 483
17	Adverb Clause	484 - 534
18	Comparison	535 - 581
19	Negation	582 - 608
20	Correlative	609 - 626
21	Preposition	627 - 660
22	Question & Exclamation	661 - 680
23	Narration, etc.	681 - 700

(例)SVOCM のふり方

Ⓞ　　Ⓜ'
I think [they are playing soccer (in the park)].
S　V　S'　　V'　　O'　前+名

書き方は独自で工夫しても構わないが分の形が分かるように記入すること.
句や節に関しては〇で囲って表示してあげると見やすい.

学習を進める前に

SVOCM の基本知識の確認として以下の表を完成させよ.

種類	日本語名	品詞	どのような使い方か
S
V
O
C
M

SVOCM の文型の確認として以下の表を埋めよ.

文型の種類	形	覚え方/訳し方(適宜)
第 1 文型
第 2 文型
第 3 文型
第 4 文型
第 5 文型

句と節の違いについて説明せよ(調べても良い).

英文法における「挿入」とは何か説明せよ(調べても良い). なお具体例や使う場面を説明しても良い.

英文法における「同格」とは何か説明せよ(調べても良い). なお具体例や使う場面を説明しても良い.

1. My house is only five minutes' walk from the station.

2. My watch may be one or two minutes fast (slow).

3. She kept walking about the room. She seemed too uneasy to sit still.

4. It is a pity that a man of your ability should remain unknown to the world.

5. It is getting colder and colder morning and evening. The leaves of the trees will soon turn red or yellow.

6. A car is convenient, to be sure, but, after all, it will prove expensive.

7. One night he came home very tired and sad.

8. We had much snow about this time last year.

9. "I have a terrible toothache." "You'd better see a dentist at once."

10. We missed you very much at the party yesterday. We had a very good time indeed.

11. "Does your watch keep good time?" "No, it gains (loses) ten minutes a day."

12. He behaved himself so as not to give offence to others.

13. The two men understood one another perfectly, and had a mutual respect for each other's strong qualities.

14. The best way to master English composition is to keep a diary in English.

15. All you have to do is to write your name and address here.

16. I could not find my brother who was to meet me at the station.

17. I disliked the idea of the necessary call, but it was to be done.

18. Nothing was to be heard except the sound of the waves.

19. If you are to make a success of writing, you have to work hard

20. His plan seemed to be too difficult, but before long it proved to be practicable.

21. Though it looked like rain this morning, it has turned out to be a fine day.

22. Some day you will come to realize the importance of saving.

23. While cleaning my room yesterday evening, I happened to find an old photograph of my mother.

24. He often fails to keep his word.

25. You must not forget to write to your parents at least once a month.

26. Would you mind waiting another ten minutes?

27. I remember reading the book three times when I was young.

28. Seeing me, they suddenly stopped talking.

29. As I was free after a long interval yesterday, I enjoyed playing tennis with my friends.

30. I found the book so interesting that I kept on reading it until daybreak.

31. It is against the rule to cross the street while the red light is on.

32. Our university building is now under construction on a hillside in the north of Fukuoka city.

33. The train was behind time, so I could not reach there on time.

34. The door will not open; the lock must be out of order.

35. I am on good terms with him. He always keeps his promise and is relied upon by everybody.

36. The damage amounted to five million yen.

37. You can go on a picnic if you like, but for my part I prefer to stay at home and read a novel.

38. I hear he is to go abroad for study as soon as he graduates from school.

39. Many young people in the country long (yearn) for city life.

40. He is slowly recovering from his illness.

41. Get off at the next stop and take a bus for the airport.

42. A slip of the tongue often brings about unexpected results.

43. If you want to speak to me, please call (ring) me up.

44. Thomas could not carry out his task on account of an accident.

45. As it is cold, you may keep your overcoat on.

46. Frankly speaking, it was difficult for me to make out what he was saying.

47. He struck a match, but quickly put it out.

48. She came very near [to] being run over by a motorcar.

49. Japan has caught up with Europe and America in medicine.

50. The government should do away with these regulations.

51. She looked down on the office girls she had worked with.

52. I was looking forward to the day when I could see him after five years' separation.

53. I will make up for the lost time by working as hard as I can.

54. From a strictly scientific point of view, history cannot be called a science.

55. It is generally believed that a trip to the moon will be made possible during this century.

56. The child must be taught to respect the truth and to tell the truth.

57. She is said to have been an actress about twenty years ago.

58. The new school buildings are expected to be completed by spring next year.

59. Punctuality is thought to be a matter of course in Europe and America.

60. She was seen to run up the stairs with tears in her eyes.

61. Last year I returned home and was surprised to find both the village and the people completely changed.

62. We were greatly relieved to find that the worst dangers were over.

63. The train was so crowded that I was kept standing all the way.

64. His death was made known to the public.

65. Mountaineering is attractive especially to young people because it is accompanied with hardships and adventures.

66. The committee is composed (is made up) of five students.

67. I was engaged in it for three years, that is, till I was twenty years old.

68. He is very much interested in Japanese history. We are surprised at his vast knowledge of this subject.

69. The bill was passed by a majority, though the Socialist Party were strongly opposed to it.

70. An office girl was robbed of the envelope containing 100,000 yen on her way back from the bank.

71. I am tired of hearing the same thing so often.

72. He soon got accustomed (used) to dormitory life and made two or three friends.

73. He was very kind to invite me to his birthday party.

74. Everybody was anxious (eager) to know what had happened.

75. Those who are delicate in health are apt (liable) to catch cold when the cold season sets in.

76. I am ready to do anything that I can for you, because I owe you a great deal.

77. I am sorry to learn you called at my home yesterday while I was out.

78. One who is not willing to learn is not worth teaching.

79. Today's weather forecast says that it is likely to be fine tomorrow.

80. Be sure to get this finished by the time I come back.

81. It is often said that Japanese universities are difficult to enter, but easy to graduate from.

82. He is busy preparing for the entrance examination.

83. Mother is more anxious about the result of the examination than I am.

84. We should always be careful of what we do.

85. In the country the colors of the sky and of the foliage are entirely different from those seen in the city.

86. The accident was due to the drunken driving of a certain film star.

87. Kyoto is internationally famous for its scenic beauty.

88. This butter is domestic, but it is in no way inferior to foreign butter.

89. Some people are rather proud of being ignorant of such an important matter.

90. You must but up with your new post for the present. I'll find you a better place one of these days.

91. The translation of the French novel took him more than three months.

92. I cannot afford to leave you idle. You must take up a regular occupation.

93. No one in the neighborhood believed him to be a genius even after he had achieved world-wide fame.

94. The spread of television enables us to enjoy the scenery of foreign countries.

95. I could not get anybody to go with me, and so I went by myself.

96. Every morning she helps her mother to prepare breakfast in the kitchen.

97. I want you to be present at the wedding ceremony, for you are an old friend of the bridegroom's.

98. While I was waiting for the rain to stop, he kindly gave me a lift.

99. You can depend on the timetable to tell you when trains leave.

100. He is so mild in disposition that I have never heard him speak in a loud voice.

101. I saw the old gentleman cross the street and enter a store on the corner.

102. I'll let you know the results of the examination when they are published.

103. My uncle made me serve as interpreter.

104. I would have somebody sweep this room clean.

105. As I entered a tearoom, I found two young men watching a wrestling match on television.

106. I'll have you all speaking fluent English within a year.

107. I'm sorry to have kept you waiting long. A visitor has kept me busy till now.

108. I must get my work done by the day after tomorrow.

109. I want to have this letter translated into English by tomorrow.

110. I had my purse and commutation ticket stolen while I was sleeping in the train.

111. The newspaper always keeps us informed of the events taking place in the world.

112. I spoke to him in English and found I could make myself understood.

113. She bought a nice toy for her child.

114. Americans are said to regard the amount of money a man makes as a criterion of his ability.

115. He looked upon any time not spent in study as so much lost time.

116. His friends congratulated him on his finishing high school.

117. The spread of television has considerably deprived us of our time for reading.

118. Excuse me for interrupting. I have something to tell you.

119. He made a little statue out of soft clay.

120. On leaving school, we presented him with a table clock as a token of our thanks.

121. I regret that a previous engagement prevents me from accepting your kind invitation.

122. This picture reminds me of the happy old days.

123. A stranger tapped me on the shoulder from behind. He took me for some other person, I'm sure.

124. Some people are color-blind: they cannot tell one color from another.

125. Low temperatures turn water into ice.

126. I tried to talk him out of the project, but in vain.

127. When he begins to do anything, he devotes himself to it.

128. Help yourself to anything you like.

129. I look to him for direction in everything.

130. That he is innocent is quite certain.

131. Whether you will succeed or not depends upon your own exertions.

132. What is most necessary for young men today is to develop the habit of thinking for themselves.

133. Just when the first human beings will reach Mars remains to be seen.

134. How much we still have to pay for peace is a riddle.

135. The first great lesson that a young man should learn is that he knows nothing.

136. The fact is that I don't know anything about him.

137. This house is conveniently situated but the trouble is that it is too small for my large family.

138. The test of a great book is whether we want to read it only once or more than once.

139. That is what the British people expect of their Queen.

140. Choose such friends as will benefit you, they say. That is why I am on intimate terms with Mr. Aoki.

141. This is how he solved the difficult problem.

142. The question is not so much what it is as how it looks.

143. They say that in tropical countries people usually marry in their teens.

144. I could not persuade him that it was true.

145. You may invite whoever wants to come.

146. She did not overlook whatever difference there was between what was right and what was wrong.

147. Before buying anything, you had better ask yourself whether you cannot do without it.

148. You will never know what she went through to educate her children.

149. The letter does not say what time she will come up to Tokyo.

150. We cannot tell how much that great statesman has done for his country.

151. They were disappointed that you could not come.

152. I am afraid that I shall not be free till the examination is over.

153. 1 am sure I met him somewhere, but I do not remember who he is.

154. I'm not certain where this ought to be put.

155. It was less than one kilometer to the village post office. But it was raining and the road was muddy.

156. It is only a few months since that Frenchman came to Japan, but he speaks Japanese very well.

157. I believe it will be quite a long time before the spirit of democracy pervades our daily life.

158. It is easy to form a plan, but it is difficult to carry it out.

159. It is not too much (no exaggeration) to say that this is the atomic age.

160. It took me about two hours and a half to dig a hole one meter in diameter and two meters in depth.

161. It cost me ten thousand yen to have my television set repaired.

162. It is advisable for a man or woman to acquire an accomplish-ment.

163. It is very kind of you to send me such a nice present.

164. He finds it very hard to do without cigarettes for a day.

165. I make it a rule to read the newspaper every day lest I should fall behind the times.

166. It is no use crying over spilt milk, as the proverb says.

167. It seems (appears) that it is getting warmer and warmer every year.

168. It often happens that railway traffic is suspended by a heavy snowfall.

169. It never occurred to me that he was the right man in the right place.

170. Because he is good, it does not follow that he is wise.

171. It has been announced that railway fares will be raised by

172. It is not likely that he did it on purpose to deceive me.

173. It is desirable (to be desired) that atomic energy should be used for peaceful purposes.

174. It is regrettable that few people should walk today because of the development of traffic facilities.

175. It is a matter for joy (congratulation) that young men's physique has very much improved.

176. It goes without saying that those who are awake to their own rights must respect those of others.

177. I think it a great pity that he should have died so young.

178. I owe it entirely to him that I have thus far succeeded.

179. Was it Mr. Yamada that came to see me during my absence yesterday?

180. It was Socrates who laid the foundation of logic.

181. It is the audience which really determines both the matter and manner of every broadcast.

182. It was on the morning of February the ninth that I arrived in London.

183. It is because light travels faster than sound that we see lightning before we hear thunder.

184. It was not until I saw him laughing that I realized what a fool I had been.

185. It isn't what he says that annoys me but the way he says it.

186. It makes no difference to me whether you are rich or poor.

187. It matters little what kind of books one reads, so long as one has sound judgment.

188. It is strange how vividly I remember the scene.

189. There is something refined about him. He is said to have been a man of respectable position.

190. There must have been a tacit understanding between them.

191. There were already a lot of people waiting in a line in front of the movie theater.

192. There were several stars seen in the sky.

193. For better or worse, there is nothing for it but to leave the matter in his hands.

194. There live in this world people of all sorts of colors and manners and customs.

195. There does not seem to be any difference of meaning between the two constructions.

196. It is not wise, nor in the long run is it kind, to tax the thrifty for the thriftless.

197. Not till then did I realize the danger of the situation.

198. At no time does the plain look so perfect as in early autumn.

199. Only after a century and a half of confusion was the royal authority restored.

200. Only if a foreigner has read much English poetry can he understand Shakespeare.

201. "You must go to bed now." "So I must, and so must you."

202. So fast did he run that they couldn't catch up with him.

203. Happy is the child who has such a mother.

204. Preserved in his laboratory were more than a thousand notebooks.

205. In the middle of the wall at the back of the room is a large window.

206. Far away across the sea lies the sunny land of Italy.

207. In late summer and autumn are seen the tints, which are the crowning beauty of the plain.

208. One thing my father left to me, and it was more valuable than a fortune.

209. What you cannot afford to buy, do without.

210. I made known my intentions to my parents.

211. Alfred, King of England, was a great scholar as well as a great ruler.

212. Secondary education has two sides, a classical side and a modern side.

213. He had something that I didn't have - an idea.

214. He was a wonderful man, that uncle of yours.

215. Inferiority complex - what exactly does that mean?

216. We were all very happy at breakfast.

217. They did not know it themselves.

218. He is proud of the fact that he has never consulted a doctor in his life.

219. You must give up the idea that you are superior to them in every respect.

220. Things have come to this, that he cannot support his family.

221. I take it that we are to come early.

222. I will see to it that everything is ready in time.

223. We must consider the question whether we can afford such huge sums for armaments.

224. You have caused me to lose my temper: a thing that has hardly ever happened to me.

225. He thought, and very wisely, that it was best to do so.

226. You and I must understand one another, and that without delay.

227. I found, to my surprise, that she was dead.

228. Few, if any, Americans grasped the significance of what had been accomplished.

229. His condition was, if anything, worse than in the morning.

230. Come on Tuesday, if possible.

231. Formerly, a book was worth its weight in silver, if not in gold.

232. We look back on days gone by if not always with affections, at any rate with a kind of wistfulness.

233. He is kind and gentle, and what is better still, honest.

234. He was, which was rare for him, in a bad temper.

235. As is often the case with young people, he was indifferent to money.

236. The approaching exam, they knew, would be quite easy.

237. At night, I think it probable, he looked up with curiosity to the stars.

238. I came up to Tokyo at once — it was early in the afternoon - and saw my uncle.

239. Their son's success in the examination gave them great pleasure.

240. The sudden increase of motorcars is causing a large number of traffic accidents every day.

241. A strike is a mass refusal to work by a body of employees.

242. They hurried to their father's rescue.

243. A mere repetition of other people's researches is not a true scientific research.

244. The doctor's careful examination of the patient brought about his speedy recovery.

245. The education by the parents of their children is sometimes very difficult.

246. Respect of the young for the old is quite natural.

247. This road will take you to the post-office.

248. His perseverance and diligence in his youth have made him what he is today.

249. Various international meetings have led us to feel more familiar with the nations of the world.

250. Today's paper reports that the Premier has given up the idea of visiting America.

251. I have been a lover of sports since I was young.

252. I thought I was a fairly good swimmer.

253. He has a good reading knowledge of French.

254. I can take a good long rest when this work is finished.

255. Don't you wish to make a flight in a hot air balloon?

256. I will give you an answer in a day or two.

257. His house stands on the hill-side and commands a splendid view.

258. I cannot tell when he will come, but when he comes, he will do his best.

259. Formerly people did not know that the earth is round and that it moves round the sun.

260. The woman with a baby in her arms arrived here just now.

261. "When did you return?" "I came back the day before yesterday."

262. He told me that whatever might happen, he was prepared for it.

263. He said that he would let us know later about the results of the examination.

264. Recently even students have come to visit foreign countries quite often.

265. More than five years have passed since I came to live in this house.

266. "Where have you been?" "I have been to the station to see a friend off."

267. He says he has never caught cold during the past (last) several years.

268. When I have finished writing the letter, I will take you to the lake about two miles beyond the hill.

269. It has been raining since the day before yesterday, but it may clear up this afternoon.

270. When he came to Tokyo for the first time, this college had not been opened yet.

271. Hardly (Scarcely) had he entered the room, when (before) she burst into tears.

272. He had not been employed by the company two years before his linguistic abilities were recognized.

273. The children were delighted to see their grandparents, whom they had not seen for quite a long time.

274. They went home after they had finished the task.

275. Up to that time he had been staying with his uncle.

276. Though this is a bulky book with over 1,000 pages, I shall have read it through by a week from today.

277. You will have seen this photograph somewhere.

278. It is getting rather late. I think I must be going now.

279. He is leaving for China on an inspection tour next month.

280. She is always finding fault with others. Is she faultless herself?

281. I was walking in the park, when I heard my name called.

282. Every morning when he was having his breakfast, his dog was staring at him.

283. If you do that, you will be cheating.

284. From the look of the sky, the typhoon will probably be raging in all its fury about this time tomorrow.

285. The meeting will be held at 10:30 a.m. on Saturday.

286. I was caught in a shower and was drenched to the skin.

287. Three persons were killed and ten were severely or slightly injured in the railway accident.

288. Two hundred houses were burnt down in the fire which broke out yesterday.

289. The school is located within five minutes' walk of the station.

290. In my neighborhood houses are now being built one after another.

291. I am very much surprised to hear that he got badly injured in a motorcar accident.

292. He went away from home three years ago, and has never been heard of since.

293. The new mayor is well spoken of by the citizens.

294. English and mathematics are made much of in senior high schools.

295. If only I knew, I would tell you all that I knew. The fact is, I have heard nothing about it.

296. If it were (Were it) not for this defect, I should hire him at once.

297. If you had come (Had you come) only two minutes earlier, you could have caught the bus.

298. If my boy had not been killed in the traffic accident, he would be a college student now.

299. If you should have any trouble, don't hesitate to come to me.

300. If you would give me another chance, I believe I could come up to your expectation.

301. Even if the sun were to rise in the west, I would not change my resolution.

302. But for the heat of the sun, what would become of the living things on earth?

303. My uncle would not have employed him but that he was very energetic.

304. Without your encouragement, I should have given up the plan.

305. To hear him speak English, you would take him for an Englishman.

306. The same thing, happening in wartime, would amount to disaster.

307. A man of common sense would realize how wrong it is.

308. I went at once; otherwise I should have missed him.

309. People could have avoided many mistakes by simple experiments.

310. I felt as happy as if I were still dreaming.

311. He pretends as though he had had nothing to do with the case.

312. When I hear him speak English, I wish I could speak half as well as he.

313. I wish I had told you about my father beforehand. I couldn't do so because of his sudden departure.

314. I wish they would turn off the radio. It is getting on my nerves.

315. It is time I were going.

316. Don't be noisy on such an occasion.

317. Listen carefully to what I say, and you cannot fail to understand what I really mean.

318. Be careful of your language in the presence of others, or you will be sorry for it.

319. Suppose you had a thousand dollars, what would you do with it?

320. Snobbery is not so common in England today as it was, say, fifty years ago.

321. Suffice it to say that after all this won't do.

322. Come what may, I am determined to accomplish it.

323. Go where you will in Holland, you will see windmills.

324. Try as they may, they will never succeed.

325. Let your occupation be what it may, you will not succeed in it, unless you devote yourself to it.

326. Be it ever so humble, there is no place like home.

327. I am sorry to trouble you so often, but will you kindly take this parcel to Mr. Yamada's?

328. Won't you come in and have a cup of tea?

329. I offered him some money, but he would not accept it.

330. He would often tell me interesting stories when I was a child.

331. You shall hear more from me by the next mail. With kind regards to you all.

332. "Shall I send for a doctor?" "No, thank you. There's no need for one."

333. The mother has told him that he is too young to understand the reason, but shall hear it when he is older.

334. Punctuality is a virtue that should be practised by those who would succeed in life.

335. Before you handed in your papers, you should have read them over and over again.

336. Lincoln ordered that all the slaves in the country should be set free.

337. Is it any wonder that he should have failed in the examination?

338. Who should come in but the very man we were talking of?

339. There is no reason why you shouldn't do such a thing.

340. As I have something to talk over with you, I should like to call on you between 2 and 3 tomorrow afternoon.

341. Ambitious boys cannot be so foolish as to indulge in sports at the expense of their school studies.

342. He started just now, so he cannot have gone so far.

343. If we want to live a peaceful and democratic life, we cannot help objecting (cannot but object) to war.

344. We cannot be too careful in the choice of our friends.

345. The influence of imitation in human society cannot be overestimated.

346. Father says I may enter a university, so I think I will prepare for the entrance examination.

347. "May I help you?" "No, thank you."

348. It may begin to rain at any moment, so I think you'd better give up your plan of mountain-climbing.

349. I may have made some minor mistakes in translation.

350. May all your dreams come true!

351. You may well feel sleepy this morning, for you were up all night long.

352. One may as well not know a thing at all, as know it but imperfectly.

353. You might as well throw your money away as lend it to him.

354. You must not park your car there without [asking] permission.

355. You must be very tired, because you have walked as long as five hours.

356. She looked so happy that I thought something wonderful must have happened to her.

357. I do hope I shall be able to enter this school this time and enjoy a happy school life.

358. You need not have come all the way from such a distant place.

359. You had better encourage your children to form the reading habit at an early age.

360. In order to master a foreign language, you had best go to the country where it is spoken.

361. You ought not to say such things in public.

362. He ought to have arrived by now, as he told me by wire that he would leave Tokyo at nine in the morning.

363. I used to get up early and take an hour's walk before breakfast.

364. There used to be a movie house about here. Don't you know where it is?

365. You don't have to worry, since you have nothing to do with this affair.

366. In order to know a man, you have only to travel with him for a week.

367. It is hard to fail, but it is worse never to have tried to succeed.

368. He insisted on climbing Mt. Tanigawa, though his mother told him not to.

369. I could not make up my mind whom to send on my be-half.

370. It is a very good idea, but the question is how to carry it out.

371. I did not know what answer to give.

372. He gave me a box in which to keep the toys.

373. He raised his hand as if to command silence.

374. He was always the first to come and the last to leave the office.

375. It is ten minutes before the train starts, so I will go and get a magazine to read in the train.

376. He has no house to live in and no wife and children to provide for.

377. Our plan was spoiled by our father's failure to return at the usual hour.

378. A number of students announced their readiness to engage in the contest.

379. Some people often complain that they have little time to read, but they are wrong.

380. A school excursion is a good chance for children to learn a great deal about their own country.

381. He will come here soon to inspect the industry of this town.

382. He stood aside for her to enter.

383. I awoke this morning to find the summit of the mountain covered with snow.

384. I inquired at the school only to find there was no student by the name of Yamada.

385. To hear him play the violin, everybody would think him to be a genius in music.

386. What a good scholar the author must be to write such a splendid book!

387. To tell the truth, it does not always pay to tell the truth.

388. To be frank with you, you are a little too anxious to succeed.

389. To do him justice, he is not without some merits.

390. He does not know English, to say nothing of (not to speak of) German or French.

391. Air as well as sunlight is, needless to say, indispensable to our daily life.

392. He was kind enough to see that I wanted for nothing.

393. The rocket landed sufficiently gently to avoid breaking its instruments.

394. This morning I got up at four so as to be in time for the first train.

395. Her skirt is so long as to reach the floor.

396. Many people complain that they are too busy to find time for reading.

397. His story was too ridiculous for anyone to believe.

398. You are too clever not to solve the hard problem.

399. He sent me a letter asking if the book had reached me.

400. Before the war, the water of the river running below Ochanomizu Station was very clear.

401. The amount of paper produced and consumed by a country is closely related to its cultural standards.

402. He sat for a long time, listening to the sound of the wind.

403. My room, facing south, is sunny and very comfortable.

404. Turning to the right, you will find the house you are looking for.

405. Admitting what you say, I still think you are wrong.

406. Having seen him in the picture, I recognized him at once.

407. Having been wrongly addressed, the letter never reached him.

408. Talking of dictionaries, I have benefited from various kinds.

409. Generally speaking, we Japanese are a little too timid in speaking foreign languages.

410. Situated on a hill, his house commands a fine view.

411. Compared with the Chinese, the Japanese are poor linguists.

412. Unable to prove his innocence, he was forced to leave his native town.

413. Old and crippled, he had courage enough to do the work.

414. A strange fellow, he never speaks unless [he is] spoken to.

415. Their conversation being in Chinese, I did not understand one word.

416. There are nine planets travelling around the sun, the earth being one of them.

417. The Milky Way is a vast belt of distant stars, each star a sun like our own.

418. I stood still, my whole attention fixed on the movements of her fingers.

419. She said her prayers, her heart full of love and tenderness.

420. She stood silent, her head slightly to one side.

421. The bride came into the room with lowered exes and with everyone staring at her.

422. My father was taking a nap on the sofa, with his legs stretched toward the fire.

423. She was waving good-bye, with her eyes full of tears.

424. The president was sitting in the chair with his back to the window.

425. Some people read the newspaper while watching television.

426. Exercise, if carried to excess, will do you more harm than good.

427. Though timid in some respects, he was very bold in others.

428. Her son died of cancer when still a boy.

429. He repents of having neglected his studies in his school days.

430. Boxing has been defined as the art of hitting without being hit.

431. I think there is little probability of his succeeding in the enterprise.

432. She complained of the room being too hot.

433. Of all the books published recently, only a few are worth reading.

434. Living in the noise and bustle of a large city, we sometimes feel like going into the country.

435. There is no telling how far science may have progressed by the end of the twentieth century.

436. On arriving at the station, I went to see my uncle at his office.

437. We visited Mito Park, which is famous for its plum blossoms.

438. The man who I thought was his father proved to be a perfect stranger.

439. Go first to those who you are sure will help you.

440. Can you mention anyone that we know who is as talented as he is?

441. I am not the man I was when you knew me first.

442. I lent Mrs. Jones all the butter there was in the house.

443. Through television we can learn various things which we cannot actually see or hear.

444. Beauty is a letter of recommendation which it is almost impossible to ignore.

445. There is no dream of man which atomic power does not promise a chance to attain.

446. Have you found the umbrella which you said you had lost the other day?

447. Is there anything you want which you have not?

448. The paint on the seat on which you are sitting is still wet.

449. I should like to introduce to you the gentleman [whom] I spoke of the other day.

450. He lent me two books, neither of which I have read as yet.

451. This is shorthand writing, by means of which we can keep up with the talker.

452. The ladies are looking after the children whose parents are employed in factories during the daytime.

453. The house whose roof you see beyond the bank is Mr. Suzuki's.

434. You should not easily trust a man of whose past you know nothing.

455. This is the largest tanker that has ever been constructed in our country.

456. The game ended in a victory for B school, which was quite contrary to predictions.

457. They thought him dull, which he was not.

458. I stayed in Japan only a few months, during which time I went through a series of hardships.

459. Are you doing what you think is right?

460. My uncle has made me what I am today.

461. The true wealth does not consist in what we have, but in what we are.

462. She is what we call a talented woman.

463. Reading is to the mind what food is to the body.

464. She will give you what money she has.

465. There was a fire in this city last night. We can't tell the exact time when it broke out.

466. The time will soon come when Japan will distinguish herself in winter sports.

467. We are now at the end of March, when cherry blossoms are much talked about in our daily conversation.

468. There are some cases where the rule does not hold good.

469. He returned to his native village, where he spent the last few years of his life.

470. When you have done with the book, put it back where you found it.

471. There is no reason why I should become a physician because my father is one.

472. We saw him the night that we went to see the play.

473. Such men as praise you to your face are apt to speak ill of you behind your back.

474. I want the same dictionary as your sister has.

475. Children should not have more money than is needed.

476. There is no rule but has some exceptions.

477. They are content with things as they are.

478. In California are the famous big trees, or "forest kings" as they are called.

479. Everyone has his intellectual desire; mine is to escape life as I know it.

480. Literature reflects human activity as carried on by the best minds.

481. This house will not sell as it stands.

482. If I were rich, I would do so. As it is, I can do nothing.

483. He is, as it were, a grown-up baby.

484. As science makes progress, old ways give place to new.

485. He always plans a thing out carefully before he does it.

486. All the coaches of the train were packed to capacity ten minutes before it started.

487. You must persevere before you can succeed.

488. He has been devoted to the study of atomic energy ever since he graduated from the university.

489. We drove through village after village, until we got to our destination.

490. People do not know the value of health till they lose it.

491. Whenever he calls on me, he leaves something behind.

492. Once you have formed a bad habit, it is by no means easy to get rid of it.

493. He was dismissed, simply because he failed to work as hard as possible.

494. You should not despise a man because he is poor.

495. I'm thinking of going somewhere for a change of air, since my doctor advises me to.

496. I stayed on so that he might not feel lonely.

497. He raised his hand in order that the taxi might stop.

498. Take this umbrella with you lest you should get wet and catch cold.

499. We should so act that we shall have nothing to regret.

500. Time is a precious thing, so that we should make the best use of it.

501. It was such a nice joke that everybody burst out laughing.

502. His honesty was such that he was respected by everybody.

503. Important as sugar is as an article of food, we cannot live on it.

504. Even if it takes me ten years, I am determined to accomplish the job.

505. I will try my best, whether I shall be successful or not.

506. It is most important to chew your food, whether vegetable or meat, before you swallow it down.

507. Whoever may say so, it is not true.

508. Whatever we may undertake, diligence is important.

509. Whatever faults he may have, meanness is not one of them.

510. He is never discouraged, no matter what difficulties he may face.

511. He wanted to do it, whatever the consequences.

512. Whenever she may come, I am ready to welcome her.

513. Wherever you may go, you will not find a better place than. your home.

514. However hard one may work, one cannot master a foreign language in a year or two.

515. No matter how rich [one may be], one should not live an idle life.

516. It is not enough to read great books once only, however carefully.

517. For all you say, I still believe in the truth of the theory.

518. Every time I read this novel, I find it very interesting.

519. Now [that] you have come of age, you should seek a living for yourself.

520. Seeing that he is not preparing at all, he seems to have no mind to take the examination.

521. I don't mind lending you the money provided [that] you pay it back within a month.

522. Granting that he was drunk, his conduct cannot be excused.

523. You had better get this letter registered for fear it should.

524. We shall but off our departure in case it rains (should rain).

525. I shall buy this house on condition that you sell it to me a little cheaper.

526. He resigned on the ground that he was ill.

527. The burglar wore gloves, with the result that there were no finger-prints to be found.

528. He married directly he left the university.

529. We see things differently according as we are rich or poor.

530. In proportion as the sales increase, the profit will rise.

531. You shall want for nothing as long as I live.

532. You may eat anything so long as you don't eat too much.

533. As far as the eye could reach, nothing was to be seen but sand.

534. Progress has been very slow indeed, so far as social life is concerned.

535. I hear my father was as old as I am now when he came up to Tokyo.

536. Though it is now January, the weather is as warm as if it were early spring.

537. Thanks to these discoveries, man's life span has become twice as long as before.

538. San Francisco is only one-tenth as populous as New York.

539. This fountain-pen is as good as any I have ever used.

540. You had better read as many newspapers as you can so that you may not be left behind the times.

541. Tokyo was really wonderful and the welcome the Japanese extended to us was also just as wonderful.

542. I have waited as long as two hours. I can't wait any longer.

543. People say I look about the same age as my sister.

544. The climate of England is not so mild as that of Japan, but in summer it is much cooler.

545. Though I have neither money nor friends, I am not so unhappy as you think.

546. Nothing is left so vividly in our mind as the impressions we received in our younger days.

547. There is no other country where books are read by so many people and can be bought so cheap as in Japan.

548. He went to France not so much for sightseeing as for inspection.

549. He left the room without so much as saying good-by to me.

550. My brother is two years older than I, but he is three centimeters shorter.

551. It is better to read a few books carefully than to read many at random.

552. Thanks to his efforts, it was more successful than we had expected.

553. She knew better than to smoke a cigarette in his presence.

554. When science was less important than it is now, it was all very well to leave science to the scientists.

555. The role of the historian is less to discover and catalog documents than to interpret and explain them.

556. The weather is more changeable in mountain regions than in any other district.

557. When we are away from home, nothing gives us more pleasure than to receive a parcel from home.

558. We have no more right to say a rude thing to another than to knock him down.

559. Nations are not to be judged by their size any more than individuals.

560. He had no more than 100 dollars.

561. He had no less than 100 dollars.

562. This dictionary contains not less than fifty thousand words.

563. She was not less beautiful than her elder sister.

564. A man's worth should be judged by his character rather than by his social position.

565. I would rather be poor than make money by dishonest means.

566. No sooner had I entered the room than I noticed the smell not only of tobacco but of gas.

567. He lost the greater part of his fortune in speculation.

568. In the mountain area snow has fallen more than fifty centimeters deep.

569. The boy more than justified the favorable opinion they had formed of him.

570. This year the cherry-blossoms are coming out a little later than usual.

571. With the development of supersonic jet planes, the world is becoming smaller and smaller.

572. Everyone has a right to enjoy his liberty, much (still) more his life.

573. He cannot speak English, much (still) less German.

574. The more a man knows, the more he discovers his ignorance.

575. The more worthless the plant, the more rapid and splendid is its growth.

576. Others will suspect us the more, the more we suspect them.

577. Mars is all the more interesting for its close resemblance to our earth.

578. I do not love him the less for his faults.

579. He worked all the harder because his master praised him.

580. This is the hottest day I have had since I came up to Tokyo.

581. We expected we should have a warm January, but we hear that this winter is the coldest in twenty years.

582. I do not expect that they will support my view.

583. Nobody expected that his condition would take a sudden turn.

584. No amount of wealth can satisfy a covetous man. Not all the treasure in the world makes him happy.

585. Little is known of this curious plant.

586. Fewer people have come to wear hats after the war.

587. He was born so poor that he received hardly any school education.

588. The climate of this town is so mild that the thermometer seldom rises to thirty degrees even in midsummer.

589. Since you are no longer a child, you should be responsible for what you do.

590. Not a few people think that all foreign-made articles are superior to ones made in this country.

591. She is not at all a beauty, but she has an unspeakable charm.

592. I was not in the least surprised, for I had fully expected as much.

593. "Will he pass the examination?" "I am afraid not."

594. I don't love her, not if she loves me.

595. A large number of books are published every day, but not all of them are good books.

596. I haven't read both his novels, but judging from the one I have read, he seems to be a promising writer.

597. Though common sense is necessary for everyone, it is not always easily acquired.

598. Theory and practice do not necessarily go together.

599. There are very few noted places in the world which my father has not yet visited.

600. Not a day passes but we use electricity in our daily life.

601. No man is so old but [that] he may learn.

602. One cannot read a good book without being so much the better for it.

603. Whoever studies hard cannot fail to succeed.

604. She did nothing but weep at the news.

605. The room allotted to me was anything but comfortable.

606. Far from falling, the prices of commodities went on rising.

607. We should be the last persons on earth to approve of the use of atomic energy for warlike purposes.

608. Present supplies of fruit are short of requirements.

609. George has two cousins: one lives in Germany and the other in Switzerland.

610. The solution of the one may prove to be the solution of the other.

611. On [the] one hand I have to work; on the other hand I have many visitors to see.

612. Practice is as important as theory, but we are apt to value the latter and despise the former.

613. It is one thing to own a library; it is quite another to use it wisely.

614. Some are called good talkers, and others good listeners.

615. This book is both interesting and instructive.

616. The Siberian Railway is at once the longest and best known railway in the world.

617. It is apt to get either cloudy or windy when the cherry-blossoms are in full bloom.

618. Yesterday it was neither too warm nor too cold. It was an ideal day for taking a walk.

619. The difficulty with biography is that it is partly record and partly art.

620. What with fatigue and [what with] lack of sleep, he has fallen ill at last.

621. It is true that yours is a good idea, but I am afraid it will be hard to put into practice.

622. Indeed he is a great scholar, but he is lacking in common sense.

623. We rented that house, not because we were pleased with it, but because it was near the station.

624. Not that I dislike that job, but that 1 have no time to do it.

625. He is a famous physicist not only in Japan, but in the world.

626. As food and drinks are to animals, so are rain and sunshine to vegetables.

627. I was born in Tokyo on the eighth of January in 1950.

628. He stayed with us till the beginning of this month.

629. When he was leaving, he told me that he would come again by the 25th.

630. "Philosophy is not a thing one can learn in six months." "I am afraid not."

631. This morning I missed the 8:30 train by five minutes.

632. He came five minutes behind the appointed time.

633. Can you keep standing on one of your legs with closed eyes for a minute?

634. The plane we were aboard was flying over the Pacific toward Wake Island at a height of 3,000 meters.

635. Take the first turning to the right and go straight on, and you will find a three-storied house on your left.

636. He left for Tokyo on urgent business by the 7 o'clock express this morning.

637. She is in her thirties but looks old for her age.

638. Any student of this school must learn one more foreign language besides English.

639. The moon came out from behind the cloud.

640. School begins at half past eight except on Wednesdays and Saturdays.

641. Men differ from other animals in that they can think and speak.

642. I take a walk every day except when it rains.

643. According to an expert, neither mountaineering nor skiing is dangerous.

644. As for the scheme I had in my head, it was not a bad one in itself.

645. So far we have had no news as to which route the expedition has taken.

646. Because of (Owing to) the icy streets, we could not drive the car.

647. Instead of sending somebody on your behalf, you had better go and speak in person.

648. Thanks to his efforts, all the crew were saved.

649. It is well known that up to the middle of the last century Japan was a feudal state.

650. He goes to a part-time high school every evening in addition to the work he does during the day.

651. In case of fire, break the glass and push the red button.

652. We are going to give a welcome meeting in honor of Mr. Clark who came to Japan the other day.

653. In spite of the depression, the prices of commodities are still high.

654. It is wrong to try to judge happiness in terms of worldly success.

655. He could not take the examination on account of his illness.

656. With regard to the matter in question, I will write to you in detail later.

657. There used to be a big cherry-tree at the back of my house.

658. He went over to America for the purpose of studying medical science.

659. Except in special circumstances, anyone is allowed to enter the building.

660. We have established the institute with a view to facilitating the research.

661. Do you know how high the television tower is?

662. What do you think we must do in order to maintain the peace of the world?

663. "That rumor is not true, is it?" "Yes, it is true."

664. Who can read the heroic deeds of brave men without a feeling of respect and admiration?

665. By whom did you get this English composition corrected?

666. What made him so angry then, I wonder?

667. What do you say to making a trip with me during the summer vacation?

668. What did you buy this expensive dictionary for?

669. [At] what time shall we arrive at Sapporo if we take this

670. Which of the TV programs do you like best?

671. Where does this road lead [to]?

672. "How do you find your washing-machine?" "Not so bad."

673. How about stopping over at Kyoto and doing the sights of the old capital?

674. "How much is this handkerchief?" "It is ninety-five cents."

675. How old were you when this town had the big fire?

676. How long does it take from here to Tokyo Station by car?

677. How far is it from here to your school?

678. "How often do the buses run in an hour?" "Every thirty minutes."

679. What a pity it is that you can't come!

680. How careless you are to forget such an important thing!

681. He told the bookstore keeper that he would come there again to buy the book that afternoon.

682. He parted from me saying that he would see me the next day, but I have not heard from him since.

683. Last night Mary met John here and said that her brother would see him here this afternoon.

684. As I was taking leave of my friend, he said he would be glad to see me again before long.

685. When I asked the college student if he regularly attended his school, he was at a loss for an answer.

686. He asked me who I thought would win the race.

687. I was asked by my uncle what I intended to be when I graduated from college.

688. The policeman told us not to cross the street against the red light.

689. She asked the doctor to come and see her son again the next day.

690. The doctor advised me to give up smoking.

691. We suggested to her that we should go on a picnic the following Sunday.

692. He said that the matter was urgent, and that there was not a moment to lose.

693. He said that he had left his purse at home and asked me if I could lend him 1,000 yen.

694. Teacher asked me if I was ready, adding that everybody was waiting for me at the school gate.

695. It would cost twice as much as that.

696. I go to see my friend in hospital every other day.

697. The thermometer stood at three degrees below zero this morning.

698. Nikko is situated about seventy five miles north of Tokyo.

699. The population of that country is about three-fourths of that of Japan.

700. Meiji was beaten by Keio by a (the) score of three to five.